It's crucial to understand the legal framework surrounding public records requests in Wisconsin before proceeding. • Local News Outlets: Often, local news sources report on significant arrests made by the Sheriff's Department. Checking the websites and news reports of local television and radio stations, as well as newspapers, may provide some information, although likely not comprehensive or up-to-the-minute. • Third-Party Data Aggregators (with caution): Some commercial data aggregators claim to provide access to arrest records.
